THE RAILWAY ROBBERIES.

The Trial, the Verdict, and the Sentence—Appearance of the Prisoners.

(From the Nashville Banner.)

FRANKLIN, Ky., Jan. 22, 1897.

The jury, in the case of the railway robbers, who have been on trial for the past two weeks, received the charge from the Judge Friday morning. The closing speech was made by Judge Loring, of Bowling Green, Ky., for the Commonwealth, occupying some five hours in the delivery of the same, which, for argument and legal research, surpassed any speech made in Simpson county. The address made while charging the jury was apt and pointed. The jury announced themselves ready Saturday noon to return a verdict, which was read by the Judge to the prisoners at half-past two P. M. Mr. P. King and Al Owens guilty of murder in the first degree. The remaining two prisoners were acquitted as to the charge of murder.

The Judge was very much affected while reading the verdict. The two guilty prisoners seemed indifferent, and Owens showed no signs of a tremor, while King seemed to suppress his feelings with an air of indifference. The jury answered to the question, if this was their verdict, in a clear and candid voice. As soon as the verdict was read, the counsel for the prisoners made known to the court that they intended applying for a new trial, which, owing to other cases then occupying the attention of the court, was deferred by the court until today, and which, up to the present writing, has not been made. It is generally believed the court will refuse to grant a new trial, after which the prisoners may take an appeal to the Court of Appeals, and the Judge's instructions to the jury will be submitted, and if approved, will return the prisoners to prison.

The verdict of the jury met with a hearty approval by the community in general, and the sentence was waited for with interest. King is about twenty-three years of age, was born in Eastern Tennessee, and emigrated here with his father some ten or twelve years ago. Al Owens is about twenty-two years of age, was born in Eastern Tennessee, and emigrated here with his father some eight years ago. King was married about eight months ago, and King and Owens were both members of the same company in the 23d Kentucky. More on, O. K.

P. S.—Since the above was written I learn that the Judge refused to grant a new trial in the case of King and Owens. They will be sentenced some time before the adjournment of court.

In the railroad robbery case, which was called this evening, the court will give answer as to continuance to-morrow morning. Yours, etc., O. K.

[LATER BY TELEGRAPH.]

Sentence of the Court—King and Owens to be Hung—Case of Other Prisoners Continued.

FRANKLIN, Jan. 23, 1897.

William P. King and Al Owens, train robbers, who subsequently killed Harvey King, one of the land, were sentenced to be hanged on the 22d of March.

The remaining two prisoners charged with robbing the train were granted a continuance until June.

JEFFERSON CRIMINAL COURT.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

Yesterday morning the court met at the usual hour, Judge Johnson presiding. A large and impatient crowd was waiting the opening of the doors, drawn thither by a curiosity to hear the decision of the jury in the Tutwiler case. At ten o'clock precisely the jury filed into court, and handed in their verdict, which found P. P. Tutwiler guilty of manslaughter, in the killing of Edward Brady, and fixed his punishment at ten years confinement in the State Prison.

CONVICTED.

Louisa Scott, charged with malicious cutting, was convicted and sent up for one year in the Penitentiary.

Mary Flood, charged with larceny, was found guilty, and sentenced for one year in the Penitentiary.

ACQUITTED.

Joseph Moran, charged with larceny, was acquitted, and discharged from custody.

PARDONED BY THE GOVERNOR.

Frank Armstrong, and Hammond, the two attorneys, fled pardons from the Governor, and the indictments against them were dismissed and the prisoners discharged.

INDICTMENTS DISMISSED.

Indictments for felony, against John Eastin and James Tatum, jointly indicted with Hammond (pardoned), were dismissed and the parties discharged.

CASES CONTINUED.

Several cases on yesterday's docket were continued, and their trial set for certain days in next month.

The docket for the day being cleared, court adjourned until the usual hour this morning.

THE HOUSE OF REFUGE.

First Annual Report of the Board of Directors.

(From the Louisville Journal.)

FRANKLIN, Ky., Jan. 22, 1897.

We are indebted to the gentlemanly Superintendent, P. Caldwell, A. B., for the "First Annual Report of the Board of Directors of the Louisville House of Refuge to the General Assembly of the State of Kentucky, and the General Council of the City of Louisville for the year ending Dec. 31, 1896."

From the report of the President, John G. Baxter, Esq., we learn that the institution was incorporated by the Legislature on March 9, 1854, and an ordinance appropriating sixty thousand dollars for the erection of the buildings, passed by the City Council, was approved by the Mayor July 2, 1859. In 1860 the construction of the buildings was commenced. Sixty-seven acres of ground were donated by the same body for the use of the House of Refuge, forty acres of which were to be used for the erection of the buildings, and the remaining twenty-seven acres for the use of the House of Refuge. The buildings were erected on a site of about twenty acres, and the House of Refuge was opened for the reception of prisoners on January 1, 1861.

The House of Refuge was opened for the reception of prisoners on January 1, 1861. The first prisoner received was a man named John G. Baxter, Esq., who was charged with the murder of a woman named Mary Fink. The prisoner was received in the House of Refuge, and was kept there until he was sentenced to the State Prison.
